Each message will describe some of the main attributes of that country. We follow the flow of the bottle from the Straits of Gibraltar and, as it travels across Europe, following the main sea currents. The lesson demands that we ask: how does the sea affect life in the countries that border it? What is so special about The Mediterranean? What are some of its human and natural wonders? What connections do we have to it?

It considers the notion of scale within a country and encourages enquiry into the division of Italy into regions and how those regions function with their unique character and histories. This includes an investigation into seven famous 'capoluogi', the regional cities of Rome, Venice, Naples, Palermo, Milan, Aosta and Florence.
